Asian Women Warm Winter Solstice with Glow of Online Chat Orient Brides Live Chat Premier Enamors Lovers with Conversation

December 21, 2009 – A large part of Asia is warming up to celebrate the annual Dongzhi Festival beginning December 21. This marks the time when short days and long lingering nights give way to a new phase of expanding sunlight. Known in the West as the Winter Solstice, Dong Zhi lasts through January 5 and is a great time to stay in the cozy, romantic indoors. People typically get in touch with friends, and bolster the body's defenses with healthy food and starchy treats such as Tangyaun, a popular dumpling containing a variety of savory and sweet fillings.

The Yin and Yang of this extreme winter celebration center on finding a peaceful equilibrium and sense of balance within oneself and with the world. The occasion is especially important for oriental women who hope to spend quality time with family and loved ones in order to create a collective energy and ward off evil spirits. To assist these positive forces and help bring a communal atmosphere to the celebrations, international dating guru OrientBrides.com has fired up a dynamic Live Chat service to enable Western men to communicate real-time with ladies from throughout Asia.

Prepped for an electrifying launch December 16, Live Chat lets members of Orient Brides search for dazzling women available online from China, Thailand, Vietnam and a host of other Asian countries. Once logged into Live Chat, members can instantly contact any number of remarkable ladies, add them to their favorites list, or wait to receive instant invites from all those intrigued by their personal profile. To make the experience even more absorbing, many ladies are enabled with webcams to create Live Chat with Video.

Orient Brides has restructured its credit system to facilitate the economical nature of Live Chat.

To make Dongzhi and Live Chat an even more uplifting experience, Orient Brides has also made several other stirring additions to its range of dating services. Any member can now send a selection of heartwarming flowers to their favorite exotic sweetheart with the tender new Orient Brides flower delivery service. Guys can also take advantage of Orient Brides live dating program, Date a Lady, which provides the opportunity to set up a face-to-face meeting with their lady of choice.
